Service Providers

Find new clean technology business

Professional services firms eyeing opportunities in clean technology industries become members of the Cleantech Network™ to open doors in the industry and raise their visibility.

Since defining the category and connecting the power players of the industry, the Cleantech Network has emerged as the best way for lawyers, accountants, consultancies and others to create new business in clean technology.

Become a member of the Cleantech Network and:

- Find potential clients in the world's most comprehensive databases of cleantech companies
- Access detailed contact and company information in a broad range of industry sectors
- Identify companies that have received venture funding and have high growth potential
- Receive updates on cleantech industry trends and emerging technologies
- Develop relationships with entrepreneurs, investors, thought leaders & corporate adopters
- Raise industry visibility with marketing options

Since defining and introducing cleantech as an investment category in 2002, the Cleantech Group has been tracking the market worldwide every day, building relationships, amassing data and connecting the power players of the sector. Its Cleantech Network has emerged as a de-facto industry association, helping partners accelerate new business opportunities in the sector.

2,300 investor relationships

3,000 deals tracked globally

1,000s of clean technology company relationships

6 offices worldwide uncovering global opportunities

"Joining the Cleantech Network has been an ideal way to match minds and network with leading clean technology innovators and investors. It is critical for our lawyers to stay on top of policies, trends and latest research. We can think of no better organization than the Cleantech Group for this kind of insight."

- Sylvia Burks, Partner, Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP

Market data

Mine the Cleantech Group's databases for business opportunities. See where capital has been flowing, to and from whom. Access full contact information of individuals and firms putting money to work in cleantech, and companies that have received that money. Also receive email alerts on new cleantech companies actively seeking funding—a constantly-increasing prospect funnel—before competitors do.

Networking events

Membership includes discounted admission to one of the Cleantech Group's global Cleantech Forums®, at which you may build relationships with investors and entrepreneurs. Introduce your firm to thought-leaders and other power players. Since 2002, the Cleantech Group's Cleantech Forums have been where deals have been done.

Market insight

Access industry trend research on emerging and growth stage technologies, and geographic regions. Get the story beyond the data with research from the Cleantech Group. Don't miss implications of latest trends.

Pricing

Membership in the Cleantech Network begins at $2500 USD / year. Exact pricing varies by organization type, needs, desired features and number of logins.
